Innisbrook

of Tarpon Springs, Florida is one of the country's truly great golf destinations. Here, 63 holes of championship golf wind through a thousand acres of gently rolling hills and lush pine forest—a setting more reminiscent of the Carolinas than Florida's west central coast. Of the three championship courses that call Innisbrook home, Copperhead is its finest.

By anyone's standards, Copperhead is a world-class challenge. It's been ranked by Golf Digest as one of 'America's Greatest,' Florida's #1 course for 6 consecutive years by Golfweek, and is the site of The JCPenney Classic. Designed by master architect E. Lawrence Packard, Copperhead's 7,031 yards have been magnificently reproduced by the Course Design Team in exacting detail to challenge you day or night, year-round. However, be warned! Copperhead is a beautiful but dangerous viper. Beneath its serene and meticulously manicured exterior, Copperhead is poised and ready to strike at any moment!
